

Asian Food Market Asian Take Away

-The real home of the oriental culinary In Iceland

Asian is a common denominator for a restaurant and a food market where oriental traditions hold up a high esteem. All visitors can choose from 6-8 courses at a time and enjoy their meals in our dining room or have everything prepared in a take-away package. The menu is always changed weekly and it comes from the minds of experienced master chefs who have built up their reputation for many years in Asia and Europe.

In this environment you can also discover The Asian Food Market. It is a very remarkable place for the one who wants to search for ingredients and learn the culinary secrets. It contains a huge selection of about 6000 products like spices, herbs and sauces coming from China, India, Thailand, The Philippines and Japan along with few brands from Africa and South America.

Oriental cuisine is renowned for its simplicity in preparation, healthful nutrition and colorful taste. Professional advices about the cooking are always given from our master chefs. Special recipes are also offered and they can also be found on the website: www.asian.is. There you can also find information about interesting cooking courses where participants are guided through delicious, simple, healthy and inexpensive facts of the oriental cuisine. The site also includes some knowledge about the making of sushi along with healthy advices.

Asian is an appreciated and a popular place to visit and we are looking forward to see you.
