

Caruso

The Icelandic restaurant Caruso has for long become deep-rooted in the hearts of the people in Reykjavík who can guarantee to get affordable top quality Italian food in a really charming southern environment.

Caruso is located in an old and dignified building made of stone and brick on the corner of Bankastræti and Pinghóltsstræti, right in the city centre. The restaurant offers a variety of top quality dishes like pasta, meat, seafood and the famous fire baked pizzas. Everyone can find something to suit their taste.

This place is for the businessman who wants a five course meal as well as the couple who want to split one pizza in half. The atmosphere is lively, yet romantic and the whole restaurant, which is on 3 floors, is surrounded with cozy decorations, fresh flowers, candlelight and comfortable sofas. On the first floor, everything is sprightlier and you can sit by the window and watch the life outdoors but the second and third floor are more private and the environment relaxed. Every Friday and Saturday night there is also live music, which makes the visit even more vibrant.

It is no overstatement that at Caruso you get fabulous dinner and excellent service for reasonable prices. It is one of the capital's most favourite, always crowded with satisfied customers and definitely worth the visit.
